I Watch The Rain

Refrain I watch the rain falling down on me and think all this could be much easier;
No war, no killing, no injuries, no suffering kids around the brasier.

Verse 1 Walking about - thinking of things going on around me.
What's going wrong in some peoples mind? Are they driveb insane?
They fire people and raise their salary and state it's done for business.
They're marching in and allege to bring freedom but bombs still explode.

Bridge 1 Pupils wearing guns, prepared to face the showdown.
The virtual reality has shown them how it works.
Others grab their cash, while dealing with addiction.
Selling death means nothing, 'cause profits calm the conscience.

Refrain I watch the rain falling down on me and think all this could be much easier;
No war, no killing, no injuries, no suffering kids around the brasier.

Verse 2 There was a resue spot on telly. A cat survived on prime time news.
Another car chase, raping, violence. Politics doesn't sell.
Another father killed his family. Depts were high and wife was gone.
This is so gutless and so awful.

Bridge 2 They root out our green lung, don't care of consequences.
Their quest for power keeps the community behind.
They're rattling their sabers while testing nuclear bombs

Rap What ever you say - what ever you do - think about the roots of mankind and that we're all brothers and sisters - no more killing - no more pain - no more crying in the rain - no more raping - no suppression - no more suffering from aggression -

no more killing - no more fight - if you're yellow, red, black or white no more hate - love is the best - in north and south, in east and west

Refrain I watch the rain falling down on me and think all this could be much easier;
No war, no killing, no injuries, no suffering kids around the brasier.

I watch the rain falling down on me and think all this could be much easier;
No war, no killing, no injuries, no suffering kids around the brasier.
